The Public Gas Fixtures [illegible] David Shaw, the Dyer. Dodge & Ray Gas Engineers who [illegible] early as he ought to save the [illegible] Gazette Office. He could have saved himself had he not deemed it his duty to save the state. Not the only [illegible]

The anarchists are now threatening the judges, the lawyers and [illegible] connected with the trial of the seven condemned anarchists in Chicago. They threaten the burning of houses and the taking of life. It will strike most people that the number to be hanged is entirely too small. One of the anarchists ended his letter published in yesterday morning's GAZETTE, to his brother anarchists with the expression "fourth of July anarchism." This ought to deprive him of any sympathy from those who love law and order.

The last New York legislature made Saturday afternoon a half holiday. It was fairly well observed at first in New York but now is generally disregarded. Business men recognize the fact that it [illegible] less business for them while clerks and laboring men know that it means less wages. Governor Hill was quite largely responsible for the measure, but in favoring it, did not make him many friends. Friends of the laboring men would do [illegible] good by finding more work for the laboring men to do rather than less hours of work per day and [illegible] holidays. They suffer more from being out of work than they do from any other ill.

The Herald, Democrat is very severe on the National Editorial association. But Leadville is the only place on which this association has not left a pleasant impression. None of the editors rank among the brilliant men of the profession, but they represent, both in character and ability, the average editors of this country. Those who attended the three days' session in Denver were impressed by their close attention to business and the serious manner with which they considered everything relating to the good of their profession. The members of this association did not come out here on a junketing expedition, but to attend the business sessions of the association. That they should have seized an opportunity as they have had to see the resources of our state is [illegible]

We think in the long run we shall send the obligation rested. The Democrats make a mistake if [illegible] editors were not well impressed with Leadville because they had to pay their own expenses. It is effective [illegible] were not comfortably accommodated. A wrong selection of hostelries was made to show them, and Providence is [illegible] felt that they were not welcome.

Mr. J. L. Bogwalt's [illegible] the Railway World a very interesting series of papers on the development of transportation systems in the United States. The last article discussed the reduction of railway rates. From the statistics of the Pennsylvania railroad we find that the average rate per ton per mile has been reduced from 2.95 cts. in 1865 to .817 of a cent in 1882. While business in 1882 was [illegible] the rate as [illegible] the receipts at the freight would have been $21,253,996 [illegible] they were [illegible] freight at the present rate. From the [illegible] in the price of fuel for a period of years, ending in 1882, it is [illegible] said are attributed to [illegible] It is an observation [illegible] that [illegible] decrease in the price of the necessaries of life [illegible] the western states [illegible] A comparison of statistics like this, shows that much of the fault found with rates of railroads is entirely just. Unfortunately we [illegible] we have not had a great decrease of rates because, first as the population of the state increased, and there was an increase of business, [illegible] the Missouri river, [illegible] to the business. The railroads [illegible] that our freight rates [illegible] much as they were ten years ago, instead of paying [illegible] interest on [illegible] and the Missouri river [illegible] and the Missouri river would [illegible] railroads to the east [illegible] means to Colorado no reduction in freight rate for increase of business.

There are undelivered telegrams at the Western Union telegraph office for R. S. Bracken and A. Hardcastle.

Quite a number of the members of the Veteran Firemen's Association of New York were in the city yesterday.

The celebrated Flambeau club of Topeka, Kansas, came down from Denver yesterday morning and went over to Manitou.

Mr. M. F. Bowers, city marshal of Manitou, is being talked of as a possible candidate for sheriff on the republican ticket.

Road Overseer Thomas Orr has had a large force of men at work on the county road south of the city during the past few days.

The unpaid list of delinquent taxpayers, whose property will be sold at public sale, appears in this week's issue of the WEEKLY GAZETTE.

A valuable horse belonging to Mr. Perry Johnson upset from his coach south of the city last Sunday and has not yet been recovered.

Mr. [illegible]'s eldest daughter, left for St. Louis yesterday morning to attend the wedding entertainment of the G. A. R.

Work on the street railway was suspended yesterday on account of rain. The road will be built as far as the last house on North Tejon street.

County Surveyor H. I. Reed will shortly remove his office to the old court house building to the two cool rooms on the second floor of the brick building.

Officer Chris Williams had the misfortune to lose his double action 38 caliber Colt revolver on Tuesday night. The finder will please return it to him.

Reserved seats for "My Geraldine" were secured at Bell's drug store yesterday. The indications are that the performance will be witnessed by a large [illegible].

Mr. Hugh McPherson, engaged in the banking business at Howell, Mich., is spending a two weeks' vacation with his brother Mr. Dougal McPherson in this city and Manitou.

Mr. David Spoonan of Manitou Park will, in company with several other Grand Army men from the city attend the national encampment of the G. A. R. at St. Louis.

Mr. J. K. Miller, who represented Myrtle Lodge, Knights of Pythias at the [illegible] Grand Lodge at Cripple Creek last Wednesday, secured the meeting of the grand lodge for this city next year.

Captain De Courcey has presented the GAZETTE office with a copy of Johnson's Cyclopedia of Culvert Statistics and Statistics of Culverts and will distribute it among the members of the force. A large number of these maps have been disposed of and they are still exciting much favorable comment.

Aldermen Lawton and Skinner, who were in Denver during the Odd Fellows' parade were so pleased with the appearance and performance of the Firemen's band that they made the organization a present of $50 and $25 respectively.

County court was in session yesterday and the day was occupied in hearing testimony in the suit of Leah Nolan[illegible] versus Jesse R. Noland. A decree of divorce was granted Mr. Frances Dixon plaintiff in the action for divorce against Joseph A. Dixon.

The Pikeside Hotel occupied a prominent position in the Odd Fellows parade at Denver on Tuesday. The appearance and [illegible] of the hotel may favorably compare with any of the leading hotels of Colorado. The Pikeside is one of the leading hotels of Colorado Springs. [illegible]

A force of men are at work under Superintendent of Streets Mahler laying gutters in the new stone crossings. The bottom of the gutter is first laid with a layer of cement about six inches in thickness. When this work is [illegible] will be [illegible]

The voting place in the Third ward, which until the spring has been at the Asbury Methodist church, has been changed to the office of Mr. H. F. Morse on the corner of Pueblo avenue and Tejon street. The new voting place will be fully as convenient as the old location. It is thought that a change may also be made in the Second ward voting place.

This evening there will be a meeting at the high school of those interested in the formation of a night school. All those who contemplate attending are requested to be present when full information as to the cost, times of meeting, subjects to be taught, etc., will be given. Ladies as well as gentlemen may avail themselves of this opportunity and strict decorum will be expected and maintained.

We yesterday noticed several fine samples of [illegible] on exhibition at W. H. Roby & Co.'s store. The corn was grown without irrigation, and some of the stalks measured seven feet in height. A peculiarity about them is that several ears grow upon them a few inches above the ground.

The directors of the street railway are very seriously thinking of building their Colorado City branch as soon as the Tejon street line is completed. The amount of travel between the two cities it is claimed, will amply justify the construction of the road. Besides proving a public accommodation, it would place some very valuable land on the market, which would be [illegible] for residence purposes.

There are now over 810 pupils in daily attendance upon the public schools of the city. This is more than 100 more than were enrolled in the schools at the corresponding period last year. The schools are so crowded that it has been found necessary to use all the available room. The old Weber street school now known as the Garfield annex, and the east room of the South Cascade school, now known as the Lincoln annex, which were closed last year, are now in use.

Dr. A. E. Grismando now comes before the public in the role of instructor and author. The front page of the last issue of the New York Mirror is adorned with his photograph, with the following notice of the [illegible]: "Of the first issue of The Mirror is a portrait of A. E. Grismando, the young French author and actor. Mr. Grismando is about to enter upon his first starring tour of this country, supported by an American company, and appearing in one of his strong characters, 'A Wronged Man'. Mr. Grismando is a handsome young man, of decided dramatic ability and with a steady pen as a playwright."

Next Monday evening Mrs. Agnes Boucicault will appear at the opera house in Bartley Campbell's great play, "My Geraldine," supported by a strong company. Of her acting in this play the Chicago News of August 29 says: "After an absence of several years Mrs. Dion Boucicault reappears this week at the Academy of Music in Bartley Campbell's drama, 'My Geraldine.' Her performance of Mary Carroll is strong and [illegible] in the character for whom George Conquest Jr. likes of the author's conception. In Mr. Leonard, Mr. O'Rourke, Miss White, Mrs. Bloodgood, Mr. Warde and Mr. Thomas J. O'Malley the actress finds actors capable of rendering her adequate support."

Captain William Saxton, of Company A, was kept quite busy yesterday in making out the pay roll for the members of Company A who accompanied the state troops south for the war. The amount which responds to the roll call was thirty one and the amount due each man is something in the neighborhood of $30. The total expense to the state from sending the company to the war will amount to very nearly $1,000. It is not known when the boys will receive the money as the state military board has decided that there was not money available with which to pay the troops. A delegation of the Denver company, bringing with it the Governor Adams and commended their mode of treating the boys while out of employment. Some of them had given a supper to the boys in Denver and their company. When they were not home they footed it to their own homes both in Colorado Springs and Denver.

[illegible] of Company A were consequently out of work. The question now is the establishment of the office that such may not be deprived of their wages. Brigadier General Bearden considers the company to be the best that he had under [illegible] the [illegible]
